

LEGISLATIVE WORKER OF SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT SAYS DANGER HOLDS WHILE DRURY BILL LIVES.

MISS FLORENCE LUSCOMB, pioneer suffrage "newspaper" leader in cause for equal rights.

MARRIAGE TRADITION FOR WOMEN ABSURD, SAYS BEATRICE HARRADEN

By GERTRUDE HALLADAY LEONARD. Secretary Legislative Committee, Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association... The Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association has filed a bill (House No. 10) asking for an amendment to the Constitution...

She had a cigarette and, whenever a particularly personal interrogation greeted her from any one of the half-dozen women reporters sent to the distinguished woman writer and suffragette, she would take one or two puffs before replying.

By VIOLA RODGERS. "The absurd tradition that every woman is necessarily born to the vocation of marriage is at length being unmasked as an absurdity. Most of us have known women who have had as much to do with marriage as their mothers do, say, helplessly unpoetic people for the roles of prima donnas."

BEATRICE HARRADEN, noted English author, who is now in the United States and glories in the militancy of her views on suffrage. They are not going to stand any nonsense. "Fish-Wife Faces Chancellor."

JOSEPHINE HAMMOND, author of morality play, "Everywoman's Road," which Boston suffragists will produce in Jordan Hall.

I used to take the "Anti" seriously; and I used to take the "Anti" seriously; and I used to take the "Anti" seriously...

Men willingly concede that women are competent and skilled in the management of a home and the family environment. A suffragette believes that the city is merely the house and home of the larger family, and I claim that women are by their nature best adapted to understand the needs of a city...

MRS. G. H. P. BELMONT recently gave an address on her reasons for equal suffrage. Men willingly concede that women are competent and skilled in the management of a home and the family environment...

The Sunday "Afternoon" which was held by the Massachusetts Equal Suffrage Association during February was the outcome of the belief that there are persons interested in suffrage who are not attending the regular suffrage meetings held weekdays...

Rev. Joseph H. McMahon of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, New York, is reported as saying in a recent lecture before the Catholic League Association:

Who, then, are the staunch and tireless supporters of the Drury bill? Who, then, are the staunch and tireless supporters of the Drury bill? Who, then, are the staunch and tireless supporters of the Drury bill?

When their larger consciences tingled up in a debate with seasoned suffragists, these intelligent women, these women, these women, these women...

Through the day the "Voiceless Speech" signs and placards were being placed on an easel in the shop window by a woman who stands behind the counter. It is a woman who is a woman who is a woman who is a woman...
